Application of Manure.

There seems to be a good deal of diversity of sentiment in regard to the best time of the year to apply manures. Such earnest advocacy of apposite opinions, many of which are the results of experience, shows And if, beyond the sphere of doubt and crime, that the time of the application of manure Lie purer lands—ah ! let our steps be thither; is not of essential importance. The value of two or three is condensed into one.

> There has been a change in the practice of some farmers here, and I judge from reading the discussions on the subject in your paper, of many in other parts of the country, which is to apply the manure more directly to grass than as formerly to grain. The immediate result of this practice is a diminished crop of grain, and perhans a diminished income from the farm a year or two, but the result in a few years is the increased fertility of the soil, and consequently an increased product of grain also. This change in the practice of farmers here has been brought about partly by their estimate of the value of the grass crop by many, as almost equal to the grain crop., The relative importance of grain and grass in a system of farming is certainly changed in favor of the latter, and the most important advantage of this is the improvement in the fertility of the soil.

Therefore the manure should be applied to the benefit of the grass chiefly. Those who raise wheat will apply their manure at lowing incident of the battle of Shiloh is time of sowing and near the surface, to related by an eye and ear witness: Two the very highest advantage of the succeeding grass. Where corn is a principal crop the manure should be put on; if possible, at fed off by stock is the best preparation for corn. N. REED, Amenia, Dutches county. + Country Gentleman.

ABOLITION.

Testimony of Andrew Johnson 'I would not be personal; but an Abolitionist is as much a Secessionist as any to be found in South Carolina. Now, as much as these Disunionists of both classes abuse each other, they nevertheless both unite in laying violent hands upon the Government that has never harmed either. If I were an Apolitionist, I would broak up the Union: for the discuption of the Union must inevi-tably destroy and obligante slavery. Hence we are for the prosecution of this war to save the Government as founded by our fathers; for Astoring the Constitution as we received it, without regard to the peculiar instituand an Abolitionist are on a par, I can prove by a simple syllogism—an abolitionist is a sunionist ; a disunionist is a secessionie! ; therefore a secessionist is an abolitionist - Hon. Couldn't Dad Head.—The principle avenue leading to Detroit has a toll-gate near the Elmirood Cemetery road. As the cemetery was laid out some time previous to the construction of the plank road, it was progided processions should go back and forth free. One day as Dr. Price, a celebrated physician, had stopped to pay his toll, he remarked to the gate keeper, "Considering the henevolent character of our profession, I think you ought to let us pass free of charge." "No. no, doctor," the keeper readily replied, "we buried, sooner or later, the liberty of both couldn't afford that. You send too many dead heads through here as it is."
